Scene: The living room in the Smith home. Door C. leading to the hall. The room is well-furnished in a prim and nothing-to-be-moved style. A chair stands near the door, and the library table is covered with fishing paraphernalia that is very evidently just bought. The price tags are still on and the wrapping paper is lying in a careless bundle at one side. At the rise of the curtain Mr. Smith is discovered fussing with a reel and whistling happily under his breath. He is a man of about forty, very quiet in manner, and, until later in the act, very much overawed by his wife whenever he is in her presence. He wears a neat business suit. Mrs. Smith (out in the hall). When you have finished with the scrubbing, Nancy, you may polish the silver. And don t forget to let me know when its train time. She comes into the room. She is also about forty years old and is rather stout, with a set chin, and...
