Reviews

*A very awesome book with perfect and lucid reasons. It really is basic but shocks within the 50 percent of the book. Its been designed in an exceptionally easy way and is particularly merely right after i finished reading this ebook where in fact changed me, change the way i think.

Not illustrated. 1905 Excerpt: .in which the different crops are raised is described in the following paragraphs: --There are many kinds of rice, and no less than 147 different varieties have been reported from the district, but, for general purposes, the cereal is divided into three main groups, ahu, or early rice, soli, or late transplanted rice, and ban, or late broadcast rice, which is grown in flooded tracts. The percentage of the total area ordinarily occupied by these three classes is--ahu 32 per cent, sali 49 per cent, and ban 19 per cent, Sah dhan is first sown in little beds or nurseries (kothitoli) which are generally situated near the homestead. Three different systems are in vogue for the sowing of this seed. Sometimes it is sown on high land which has been ploughed up till it has been reduced to a fine tilth but has not actually been puddled, but more usually it is sown on a bed of mud. When the land lies low and is exposed to flood a third course is adopted which consists of a combination of the other two, the seeds being first sown on a dry bed (tihuliya), transplanted into a puddle nursery, and finally moved once more to the field in which it is intended that they should reach maturity Plants which have been treated in this way, or Joa kathiya as they are called, are said to be unusually strong and to be less likely to suffer from too prolonged...
